Question 2

Question and Scoring Guidelines
Question 2

A state is considering an amendment to its constitution requiring that judges be appointed rather than elected. A supporter of the amendment makes the following statement:

Electing judges allows choices to be made on the basis of political influence, not merit. I believe that it is time to consider changing this practice to a system whereby judges are appointed by the governor and confirmed by the legislature.

Our State Bar (lawyers) Association supports this change because during election years, campaigning and fundraising for the election of judges delays the hearing of cases. This creates a backlog in the year following the election. Furthermore, a survey of voter habits by the State Election Commission reports that 60% of voters fail to vote for judges at all. Voters say they lack relevant criteria for making selections. The Commission has stated its support for the amendment in order to better assure that judges have been chosen on their merits rather than their appeal to special interests.

Explain why the use of the particular sources presented by the supporter of the amendment makes the supporter’s position credible. Be sure to refer to:

- the qualifications of the sources;
- the consistency (agreement) between the sources.

Type your answer in the space provided.

Points Possible: 2

Question 2

Sample Responses
Sample Response: 2 points

A state is considering an amendment to its constitution requiring that judges be appointed rather than elected. A supporter of the amendment makes the following statement:

ELECTING JUDGES ALLOWS CHOICES TO BE MADE ON THE BASIS OF POLITICAL INFLUENCE, NOT MERIT. I BELIEVE THAT IT IS TIME TO CONSIDER CHANGING THIS PRACTICE TO A SYSTEM WHEREBY JUDGES ARE APPOINTED BY THE GOVERNOR AND CONFIRMED BY THE LEGISLATURE.

Our State Bar (lawyers) Association supports this change because during election years, campaigning and fundraising for the election of judges delays the hearing of cases. This creates a backlog in the year following the election. Furthermore, a survey of voter habits by the State Election Commission reports that 60% of voters fail to vote for judges at all. Voters say they lack relevant criteria for making selections. The Commission has stated its support for the amendment in order to better assure that judges have been chosen on their merits rather than their appeal to special interests.

Explain why the use of the particular sources presented by the supporter of the amendment makes the supporter's position credible. Be sure to refer to:

- the qualifications of the sources;
- the consistency (agreement) between the sources.

Type your answer in the space provided.

The supporter's statement has good credible info about his sources. It is explained and he has more than one source of information and they both agree that there is a problem.

Both sources qualifications are good because they have firsthand experience with the problems in voting for judges. They have really thought about the problems and have come up with an answer.

Notes on Scoring

This response earns full credit (2 points). The response offers a complete explanation of the qualifications of the sources (“have firsthand experience with the problems in voting for judges. They have really thought about the problems”). The response offers an appropriate explanation of the consistency between the sources (“they both agree that there is a problem”) to make the supporter's position credible.

By using the State Bar Association it makes the person very credible because they are very looked up to and respected when it comes to judges and the courts.

And by using the State Election Commission it adds statistics to back up what the Bar Association said.

Notes on Scoring

This response earns full credit (2 points). The response offers a complete explanation of the qualifications of the sources (“they are very looked up to and respected when it comes to judges and the courts”). The response offers an appropriate explanation of the consistency between the sources (“the State Election Commission... back up what the Bar Association said”) to make the supporter’s position credible.

The use of sources by the supporter in his speech makes him seem more credible. Saying that the lawyers association supports this change and giving reasons why is good because they are apart of the process with the judges.

Notes on Scoring

This response earns partial credit (1 point). The response addresses the qualifications of the Lawyers Association (“because they are a part of the process with the judges”) but it does not attempt consistency between the sources.

A state is considering an amendment that will require Judges to be appointed rather than elected. A supporter of this amendment made a credible position. In this piece the supporter had said by holding these elections judges will delay the hearing of cases. Which by delaying hearings it creates a backlog for the following year. Also this supporter mentions that 60% of the voters fail to vote for judges at all. After reading this piece I also agree with the supporter judges should be appointed instead of elected.

Sample Response: 4 points

Explain how the passage of the 19th Amendment changed the U.S. Constitution to allow greater participation in government. Be sure to note a restriction on voting that the 19th Amendment addressed.

Then, explain how the passage of the 26th Amendment continued the change toward greater participation in government. Be sure to note a restriction on voting that the 26th Amendment addressed.

Type your answer in the space provided.

The passage of the 19th amendment gave women the right to vote. This changed the U.S. Constitution to allow greater participation in government because more people could participate in government decisions, not just men could vote anymore. More people had the ability to apply their inputs and opinions into decisions and government. Before the 19th amendment, voting rights were restricted to just men. But after, more people could participate in government decisions. The 26th amendment lowered the voting age to 18 years old. This amendment also broadened the amount of people that had the ability to participate in government. Before this amendment the voting age was 21 years old. Since the voting age decreased, thousands more people could now vote.

Notes on Scoring

This response earns full credit (4 points). The response addresses the 19th Amendment by indicating the change made to the Constitution (“The passage of the 19th amendment gave women the right to vote.”) and by indicating the prior condition that was addressed (“Before the 19th amendment, voting rights were restricted to just men.”).

The response addresses the 26th Amendment by indicating the change made to the Constitution (“The 26th amendment lowered the voting age to 18 years old.”) and by indicating the prior condition that was addressed (“Before this amendment the voting age was 21 years old.”).
Sample Response: 4 points

Explain how the passage of the 19th Amendment changed the U.S. Constitution to allow greater participation in government. Be sure to note a restriction on voting that the 19th Amendment addressed.

Then, explain how the passage of the 26th Amendment continued the change toward greater participation in government. Be sure to note a restriction on voting that the 26th Amendment addressed.

Type your answer in the space provided.

The 19th Amendment allowed greater participation in government because it gave women suffrage, or the right to votes. Before the 19th Amendment, only men could vote and the whole other half of the population had no government involvement. Therefore, allowing women to vote greatly increased participation in government. One restriction on voting that the 19th Amendment addressed was women had to be 21 years of age or older to vote. The passage of the 26th Amendment continued greater participation in government, the voting age was lowered from 21 years of age to 18 because people could go to war for their country but couldn’t vote. This increased government participation because all 18, 19, and 20 year olds in the nation could now be involved in the government and vote. A restriction on voting the 26th Amendment addressed was that no one below the age of 18 could vote.

The 19th Amendment allowed women to vote. Since women make up about 50% of the population the 19th Amendment allowed greater participation in government. The 26th Amendment lowered the voting age to 18. Before people over 21 could vote. After the 26th Amendment was made people 18 and older could vote.

The passage of the 19th Amendment changed the U.S. constitution because it gave women the right to vote. Before, only men were allowed to have a say in who runs our government, because women were thought only as housewives instead of individuals with thoughts and opinions.

The passage of the 26th Amendment also changed the Constitution because it gave 18 year olds the right to vote. Note only were women allowed to vote, but they have anyone 18 years or older the right to have an opinion involving the government. Both of these Amendments made a huge impact on the U.S. Constitution.

Points Possible: 1

Course: American Government

Content Statement: Constitutional government in the United States has changed over time as a result of amendments to the U.S. Constitution, Supreme Court decisions, legislation and informal practices. (7)
Scoring Guidelines

Rationale for Option A: It was a federal constitutional amendment, not various state laws, that banned alcohol.

Rationale for Option B: The issue did not go to the high court, because it was part of a constitutional amendment.

Rationale for Option C: This condition no longer applied by 1932.

Rationale for Option D: Key – The 21st Amendment nullified the 18th Amendment, which enacted the failed policy of banning alcohol.

A. The Electoral College needed more time to certify the results of the election.

B. The public demanded more results from newly elected administrations and wanted the president and Congress to begin serving sooner.

Points Possible: 1

Course: American Government

Content Statement: Five amendments have altered provisions for presidential election, terms and succession to address changing historical circumstances. (12)
Scoring Guidelines

Rationale for Option A: The certification time of the Electoral College was not a factor that made the 20th Amendment a practical improvement.

Rationale for Option B: The public’s desire to have their new president in office had not changed.

Rationale for Option C: Key – When the Constitution was written, elected officials had to travel by horse over poor roads to get to Washington. By the 1930s, cars and trains made getting to Washington much easier and faster.

Rationale for Option D: Sitting presidents were not necessarily eager to leave the office that they had previously fought so hard to win.

A town council faces budget cuts and can no longer afford to pay for landscaping in town parks.

How could a citizen work within his or her own community to help the local government address this problem?

A. by emailing Ohio’s congressional delegation to inform them of this issue
B. by organizing a group of residents to volunteer for weekly park maintenance
C. by requesting that the governor supply the town with state funds for park maintenance
D. by running for a seat in the General Assembly with a promise to increase funding for local parks

Points Possible: 1

Course: American Government

Content Statement: Individuals in Ohio have a responsibility to assist state and local governments as they address relevant and often controversial problems that directly affect their communities. (20)
Scoring Guidelines

Rationale for Option A: Emailing Ohio’s congressional delegation would not help the local government address the issue; the issue is too local to be effectively addressed by legislators at the national level.

Rationale for Option B: Key - Organizing civic action, such as a group of volunteers to take over park maintenance, is a reasonable way for a citizen to help their government solve this problem.

Rationale for Option C: Though citizens may be upset about the lack of funding for their town parks, asking the government to send state funds for their local parks would not be a reasonable action and would not assist the local government.

Rationale for Option D: While a citizen could decide to run for the General Assembly, this action would not help the local government address the problem of budget cutbacks and park maintenance.

Why might lawmakers increase taxes and decrease government spending?

A. to reduce unemployment
B. to increase consumer spending
C. to decrease the level of demand
D. to encourage corporate spending

Points Possible: 1

Course: American Government

Content Statement: The federal government uses spending and tax policy to maintain economic stability and foster economic growth. Regulatory actions carry economic costs and benefits. (23)
Scoring Guidelines

Rationale for Option A: Economic growth will not increase if less money is available for spending and investment, which would be the result of increased taxes and reduced government spending.

Rationale for Option B: Increases in taxes would cause employers to invest less in production. Decreases in government spending would likewise cause more unemployment.

Rationale for Option C: Key - Increasing taxes will mean wage earners and businesses will have less money to spend; reducing growth and decreasing government spending would also mean less money to fuel economic growth. Both of these would result in a decrease in the level of demand in the economy.

Rationale for Option D: Corporations would be discouraged from spending because there would probably be a reduced demand for goods and increases in operating costs.

Course: American Government

Content Statement: The Reconstruction Era prompted Amendments 13 through 15 to address the aftermath of slavery and the Civil War. (9)
Scoring Guidelines

Part A

Rationale for Option A: While extending voting rights to women was an important cause, it was not a specific goal of Reconstruction.

Rationale for Option B: Key – One goal of Reconstruction was to institute rights and freedoms for former slaves.

Rationale for Option C: While Southern Democrats wanted to maintain and grow their power in the South, this was not a goal of the federal government during Reconstruction. In fact, political power held by Southern Democrats was a hindrance to the extension of freedoms to African Americans.

Rationale for Option D: While many white southerners sought to continue their oppression of African Americans, this was not a goal of the federal government. In fact, the federal government hoped to extend rights to former slaves.

Part B (Part A must be correct for Part B to be correct)

First Rationale: Key – The federal government proposed and ratified the 13th Amendment, which abolished slavery in the U.S. and thus extended freedoms to former slaves.

Second Rationale: While this option may be selected to support the oppression of African Americans in Part A, this was not a goal or a tactic used by the federal government during Reconstruction.

Third Rationale: Key – The federal government proposed and ratified the 14th Amendment and thus extended freedoms to former slaves.

Fourth Rationale: While this option may be selected to support the extension of rights to southern women in Part A, this was not a goal or a tactic used by the federal government during Reconstruction.

Fifth Rationale: Key – The federal government proposed and ratified the 15th Amendment, giving African Americans the right to vote and thus extending freedoms to former slaves.

Before the U.S. Constitution was adopted, each state held a ratifying convention to discuss and vote on the Constitution.

Alexander Hamilton attended the New York state ratification convention. A quote from one of his speeches during the convention is shown.

Here [in the U.S. House of Representatives], sir, the people govern; here they act by their immediate representatives.

Which basic principle of governance is Hamilton highlighting in this quote?

A. federalism
B. limited government
C. popular sovereignty
D. separation of powers

Points Possible: 1

Course: Principles and Structure

Content Statement: As the supreme law of the land, the U.S. Constitution incorporates basic principles that help define the government of the United States as a federal republic, including its structure, powers and relationship with the governed. (5)
Scoring Guidelines

Rationale for Option A: This is incorrect. Federalism is the idea of dividing political power between a central institution and constituent units (in this case, the federal government and the states). The quote, however, speaks of people acting through representatives, which illustrates the concept of popular sovereignty.

Rationale for Option B: This is incorrect. Limited government is the idea of a government that is kept in check by its own laws, so as not to encroach on the rights of its constituents. The quote, however, speaks of people acting through representatives, which illustrates the concept of popular sovereignty.

Rationale for Option C: Key - In the quote, Hamilton explains that people hold political power and that this power is manifested through political representation. The idea expressed in the quote is a clear reflection of the concept of popular sovereignty.

Rationale for Option D: This is incorrect. Separation of powers is the idea of giving different branches of government exclusive powers, so that conflicts of interest within government are avoided. The quote, however, speaks of people acting through representatives, which illustrates the concept of popular sovereignty.
