| 2     | The response is somewhat sustained within the purpose, audience, and task; it may include loosely related | The response provides uneven, cursory support/evidence for the writer’s thesis statement that includes partial use of sources, facts, and details. The response may include the following:
• Weakly integrated evidence from sources; erratic or irrelevant references or citations
• Repetitive or ineffective use of elaborative techniques
• Imprecise or simplistic expression of ideas
• Some use of inappropriate domain-specific vocabulary
• Most sentences limited to simple constructions                                                                 | The response demonstrates an adequate command of basic conventions. The response may include the following:
• Some minor errors in usage but no patterns of errors
• Adequate use of punctuation, capitalization, sentence formation, and spelling                                                                                 |
|       | or extraneous material; and it may have a thesis statement with an inconsistent organizational structure. The response may include the following:
• A focused thesis statement but insufficiently sustained or unclear
• Insufficiently addressed alternate or opposing claims*
• Inconsistent use of transitional strategies with little variety
• Uneven progression of ideas from beginning to end with an inadequate introduction or conclusion                                                                 |                                                                                                                                             |
| 1     | The response is related to the topic but may demonstrate little awareness of the purpose, audience, and task; may have an unclear thesis statement and a limited organizational structure. The response may include the following:
• A confusing, or ambiguous thesis statement
• Confusing alternate or opposing claims*
• Few transitional strategies
• Frequent extraneous ideas that impede understanding
• Too brief to demonstrate knowledge of focus or organization                                                                 | The response provides minimal support/evidence for the writer’s thesis statement, including little use of sources, facts, and details. The response may include the following:
• Minimal, erroneous, or irrelevant evidence or citations from the source material
• Expression of ideas that is vague, unclear, or confusing
• Limited and often inappropriate language or domain-specific vocabulary
• Sentences limited to simple constructions                                                                 | The response demonstrates a partial command of basic conventions. The response may include the following:
• Various errors in usage
• Inconsistent use of correct punctuation, capitalization, sentence formation, and spelling                                                                                 |
|       |                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                             |
| 0     | This response is minimally related to the topic and demonstrates no awareness of the purpose, audience and task; and has no focus or organizational structure. The response may:
• Be blank or show a written refusal to answer
• Be presented in a language other than English
• Include only a restatement of the stem
• Consist of random keystroke characters
• Include only bulleted points
• Include no transitional strategies
• Have no evidence of a thesis
• Have no evidence of a counterclaim                                                                 | The response provides no evidence related to the argument, thesis statement or the passages. It may include:
• Only direct copy of part of the reading selection
• No relevant domain-specific vocabulary
• No evidence or citations from the source material(s)                                                                                                          | The response demonstrates a lack of command of conventions, with frequent and severe errors often obscuring meaning.                                           |
